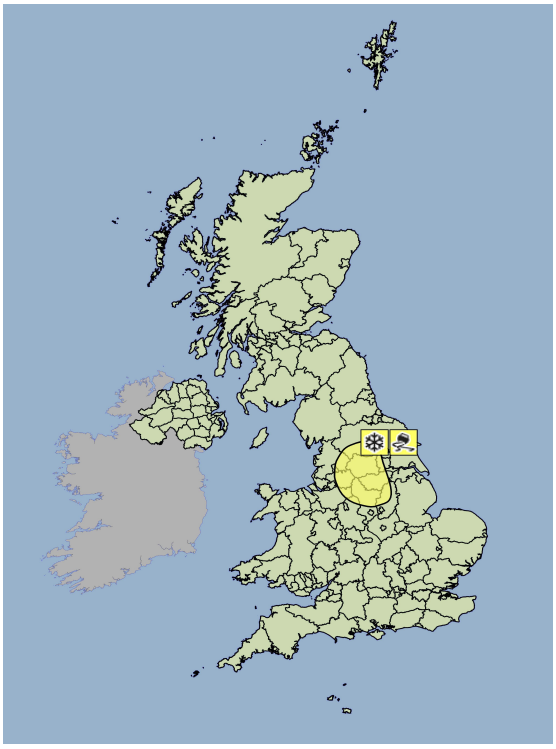
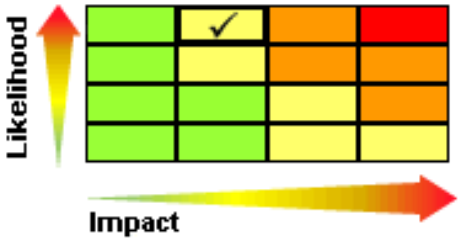
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Tuesday night and Wednesday mornings sleet and snow will slowly die out through Wednesday afternoon and evening, perhaps bringing a further 2 to 4 cm in places to high ground above 150 metres before doing so. However surfaces will remain cold, especially over higher ground and where snow is lying, with ice expected to become the main hazard overnight.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 12:05 on Wed, 21st Jan 2015 until 12:00 on Thu, 22nd Jan 2015

Outbreaks of sleet and snow, especially over higher ground, will slowly die out through Wednesday afternoon and evening but will leave the hazard of icy surfaces on Wednesday night.

The public should be aware of the continued risk of disruption to transport due to ice and snow.
